Interior Minister Yosef Burg talks with a weary-looking Prime Minister Menahem Begin at yesterday's opening of the winter session of the Knesset.

Burg won't be silent if he is blamed for Dayan's resignation

By SARAH HONIG and ASHER WALLFISH

Jerusalem Post Reporters Interior Minister Yosef Burg indicated yesterday that bs will not remain silent if Foreign Minister Moshe Davan blames his resignation from the cabinet on the way be (Burg) is running the autonomy negotiations.

Dayan is scheduled to bold a press conference today when his resignation comes into effect at noon.

Burg saye that as Dayan will be free to say what is on his mind in the news media, he, too, will be free to reply. The interior minister indicated that be has correspondence which be carried on with Dayan regarding the autonomy talks and be would make some of this public in response to any accusations that the outgoing foreign minister may level

At yesterday's ssssion of the National Religious Party Knesset faction, Burg criticized Dayan sharply and told his colleagues that be is amazed at the things Dayan is saying and the points be made in his October 2nd letter to Premier Menabem Begin. The letter was

Burg said that since Dayan bad never put forward any proposals regarding autonomy nr the sutonomy talks which his colleagues had rejected, his complaints about differences of opinion were baseless.

The cabinet and the ministerial committee on autonomy would undoubtedly have accepted every practical idea which the foreign minister raised, Burg said. But he reported that he had again gone through the minutes of the meetings and verified that Davan mads no proposals anyway, either before he dropped out of the committee or afterwards. Burg stated that the committee of ministers bad carried out the cabinet decisions to the letter in full coor-dination with Begin. "The premier trusted ms. He relied on me. For thet reason I totally reject all criticism of the way the autonomy talks have been bandled," Burg sald heatedly.

The hope of the committee yesterdey was that the fresh ideas and new plans which Burg will raise in London on Thursday and Friday, and for which be has a certain degree of room for manoeuvre, will recharge the autonomy talks' batteries, and inject new life into the subcommittee meetings in Herzliya between November 6 and 9, as well as into the plenum meetings there towards the

Burg, meanwhile, told his NRP colleagues that he does not want to succeed Dayan as foreign minister. Much of the faction session was devoted to the members attempting to persuads Burg to take the Foreign Ministry portfolio. The faction wanted to come out with a statement was dropped at Burg's insistence, although every NRP MK supported his candidacy. According to faction chairman Yebuda Ben-Meir, be bas it on good authority that Burg is Begin's first choice to succeed Dayan. Burg is said to bave met with the prime minister earlier yesterday, giving him the same message that be bad

Zero growth hurting agricultural sector in fill the void caused by Jews leavagricultural products exported.

By YITZHAK OKED Jarusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - "Zero growth" and 'stagnation' were terms absent from the vocabulary of Israel's farmers until recently. But as the reality of recession catches up with the most favoured sector of the economy, it is sliding into a slump such as it has not known for the past 15 years. The recession is already being felt in many areas of agriculture - especially the Moshav Movement. There are stories from all over the country of moshavniks leaving the land and taking jobs in the city.

At Moshav Ornt in the south, several chicken farmers have had to liquidate their poultry farms because their debts to the moshav were spiralling. When they passed the IL1m. mark, they knew they could not go on.

"On a debt of Ham, the yearly interest alnne is over IL500,000," a moshav member told The Jerusalem

One northern moshav forced all its members to immediately return 10 per cent of their dehts in the moshav when they enuld not find working capital. Some farmers sold their cars to pay. The secretariat, realizing that this was not enough, called on its members in return anniher 10 per cent, and several moshavniks had to stop their agricultural ac-livities and go job-hunting in the city to pay the hill. Agrexeo, the agricultural export company, is a baromoter of the agricultural sector.

Ovadia Mor, manager of its commic division, forecast that the correct year would be the first in lsrnel's history in which there would be no increase in the real tonnage of After fruit exports jumped from 20,000 tons ln 1977 in 26,000 tons last year, the figure for 1979-80 is expected to stick at only 27,000 tons. Vegetable exports are expected tn drop to 117,000 tons, compared with 135,000 inns last year.

Economists in the Agriculture Ministry and the Histadrut's Agricultural Centre both agree that the agricultural year — which ended nn September 30th - was the worst in the past 15 years. Economic growth has dropped to zero, or maybe even declined in minus 0.5 per cent.

This stagnation in agriculture will be felt throughout the economy. At worst it could mean a drop in food production. A rise in food prices is

After the consultations, Cabinet Secretary Arye Naor told The Jerusniem Post that retroactive legislation to get around the ruling was out of the question and the government would abide by the court's decision

Naor emphasized that the government would not abandon its settlement policy but future settlements would probably be put up on public lands only and in such a way that the courts could rule that they were catabllebed out of security coneldcrations and not in order to further political aims, as the High Court found in the Ellon Moreh case. "This government abhors the very ldea of retroective legislation and although such legislation was enacted by Labour governments in the past, we will not sven entertain the notion," Nanr asserted.

Both Naor and Deputy Minister Yoram Arldor, who is Herut secretariat chairman, said that legislation to circumvent the court 's dscision would be self-defeating. It would mean annexation or application of Israell law in the territories. "Once this is done, it would make land expropriation for security reasons impossible as such a move le not permisalble hy Israeli law."

Aridor explained. Naor added that the one conclusion from the episode is "that we must settle only where the law allows it. We will have to limit ourselves to public land and stay away from private property as much as possible. This ruling provides us with s clear framework Aridor added that the "court ruling applied only to the private lands of Elion Moreb. Most of the cettlement is on public land but the houses and main buildings are not on public land and would have to be dismantied and moved. We hope we can find a place for them nearby.

Few MK's yesterday supported the idea of retrosctive legislation, and it was clear that the notion would fail to win a majority within the coalition. One MK who came out openly for retroactive legislation was Herut'e Dov Shilansky, who said there were precedents for such action during Labour administrations and that the issue involved now is "the very beart and core of the Zionist ethos.'

on M.E. mission

By WOLF BLITZER Jerusalem Post Correspondent

WASHINGTON. - Opening a new U.S. peace initiative for Lehanon, U.S. ambassador-ai-large Philip Habib was due to leave last night on a sixnstlon "fact finding" tour in Europe and the Middis East. Hablb, the former undersecretary of state for political affairs, is scheduled lo make brief "one or two day" visits to Beirut, Amman, Damascus, Jerusalem, Rome and Paris, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said yesterday In disclosing details of the mission.

The central Lebanese government under President Elias Sarkis has been pressing the U.S. to Intensify efforts to strengthen the fragile ceasefire in Lebanon and to stabilize the peace. This Habib trip, U.S. cources said, is designed in port to demonstrate to Sarkis and his government the extent of U.S. interest in consolidating the authority of the Lebanese government throughout the entire country.

Spokesman Carter ruled out any direct contact between Habih and the PLO, reiterating the longstanding U.S. position that such contacts are barred until the PLO accepts UN Security Council Resolution 242 and Israel's right to exist.

U.S. officials yesterday insisted that Habib was not taking any specific American proposals with him. They said Habib merely wanted to consult with the various interested parties in an effort to lay the groundwork for further U.S. diplomatic activities in the coming Spokesman Carter flatiy denied that Habib was carrying a proposal for a formal, U.S.-sponsored "allpartles" conference on Lebanon, as reported in recent weeks in "The Christian Science Monitor" and other U.S. newspapers.

Hablb bas oot included Saudi Arabia in his schedule, the spokesman said, bscause the veteran state department diplomat and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance recently discussed this issue with Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud

The stopover in Rome was designed to enable Habib to raise the issue with the Vatican, which has demonstrated its concern and interest in resolving the Lebaness situation. Pope John Paul II specifically referred to the Lebanese situation during his UN speech earlier this month.

Hahib, who is of Lobanese ancestry, is a highly respected official who was forced to leave the State Department in 1977 after suffering a heart attack. Earlier this year, he returned as an ambassadorat-largs with certain special respon-sibilities, including Lebanon.

Detectives charged | Toon: Soviets will eventually ioin Mideast peace process

By ALAN ELSNER Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - The Soviet Union will hove to be involved as an active party in the negotiations of a comprehensive Middle East peace at some point in the process, according to Malcolm Toon, the former U.S. ambasssdor to Moscow

In a lecture at Tel Aviv University. Toon declared that the USSR is a "political, military and economic force in the Middle East that won't go away. The Soviets are here to stay and we must take account of them when negotlating a peace agreement. They also have a legal status as a party to Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338 and cochairman of the Geneva con-

In Toon's estimate, Soviet policy in the immediate future will be to adopt a "blocking role," continuing to Isolate Egypt in the Arab world and trying to draw nearer to Jordan and Saudi Arabia. At the same time, the USSR will not attempt a major effort to disrupt peace because "their allies would be clobbered by Israel and the confilct might widen dangerously" he sald.

Therefore, Toon continued, the Soviet leaders have tried up to now to exercise a restraining influence on their Arab aliles, especially Gaddafi of Libya, and to avoid any action that might put them in a position of direct confrontation with the U.S. Toon does not believe this policy will change until the Russlans are convinced that the autonomy talks will succeed. At that point, however, they might be inclined to reconsider reopening their channels of communication with Israel, added the one-time U.S. ambassador to Israel. He was ambassador in Moscow for the past two and one-half years.

In response to a question on the possible dangers of a Palestinian state in Judea and Samaria, Toon was unequivocal, branding such a possibility as "a big threat to. Israel's security. The Soviets might very well move in and run the whole the Basic Law: The Government, as the chief of staff was subject to the case, it was legally justifiable to confirm the seizure of land for a civilian settlement when the land in question was private property. The judges distinguished their earlier decision on similar issues in the Beit El, Mattltyahu and Hilu casea while reiterating that the internal or municipal iaw in the administered territories was that of customary international law as long as this was not contrary to specific Israoli legislation.

In the Beit El case the judges had ruled that private land could be seized by the military governor of an area occupled as a result of war under aection 52 of the Hague Convention, which permits the acizure of private property for the military purposes of the occupying army. Landau sald: 'I repeat that there ls no room to doubt that in the professional opinion of Rav-Aluf Eitan," as it emerged from his affidavit and his reply to a questionnaire submitted by the plaintiff's counsel, "the establishment of a civilian settlement on that site contributeo to the regional defence in the area.

'However, I am of the opinion that this professional opinion of the chief of staff, of itself, would not have caused the decision to establish the settlemant of Elion Moreb, without another reason, which was the driv-ing force in the decision of the Ministerial Defence Committee and the full cabinat. That reason was tha fierce desire of the members of Gush Emunim to settle in the heart of Eretz Yisrael, as near as possible to the city of Nabius. Regarding the debates in the committee and the cahinot, we were not abio to follow them by reading the protocol. Even without this we have enough signs from the ovidence before us that both the ministerial committee and the majority in the cabinet were decisively infinenced by reasons of a Zionist world view regarding the settlement of all of Eretz Ylsrael."

Landau noted that this world viow also emerged from the announcement State Attorney Gavriol Bach submitted. In the name of Primo Minister Menahem Begin, in roply to statements made by the Gush Emunim respondents in the case.

'However, the question before the court in this appeal is whether this world viow justifies the seizure of private property in an area subject to military govornment. As I havo tried to make clear, the answer to this dapands on a correct interpretation of Section 52 of the Hague Convention. I am of the opinion that the military requirements in that section cannot include, according to any reasonable interpretation at all, the needs of national security in their wide sense" as they omerge from Begin's statement, tha judge con-

Landau wrote that from the full pleture as it emarged, the initiative for establishing the settlement came from the political level, and the army's role had beeo passivo and responsive. In this case there was no prior thinking or planning by the military authorities and they had no part in the selection of the five potentlai sites for the settlement.

COURT RULES ON EILON MOREH

By YITZHAK OKED Jerusalom Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. - Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, head of the Ministerial Settlement Committee, was not available veaterday morning for comment on the High Court decision on Eilon Moreh, hut aides close to the minister told The Jerusalem Post that on hearing of the decision. he was "infuriated."

datision of the political level ts estahlish the settlement at that site have been taken but for the pressure of Gush Emunim and the politicaldeological reasons before them? I have been convinced that, but for these reasons, this decision would not have been taken in the prevailing circumstances of the time," said Lan-

The judge also referred to a statement in the affidavit submitted by one of the Guoh Emunim respondents which attributed to the government, and in particular to the prima minister, the opinion that Eilon Moreh was to be a permanent settlement. Since this had not been refuted by the government's representatives the court accepted this as true.

This meant, in effect, that the settlsment established by the military government was intended to remain in place even after the military government came to an

The insurmountable legal obstacle to this, the judge wrote, is that a military government cannot establish facts in the area it controls for its own military purposes which are, from the start, intended to remain after the period of the military government comes to an end, and this when the fate of the area after that period had vot to be doclded.

Justices Miriam Ben-Porat and Shlomo Ascher concurred with Landau's opinion without any comment. Both Landau and Justice Aifrod Witkon recalled that the chief of etaff'a opinion, as suhmitted to the court, was not that of other military experts, who folt that a elvillan settlement on that particular site was not an absolute military necessity nor the best way of achieving sccurity goals in the area. This by itself did not diminioh the weight of his statement, which was submitted in his role as responsible for the sceurity of the area. Witkon, in parilcular, noted the fact that Defence Minister Ezer Weizman himself did not share Eitan's opinion and Weizman was no less responsible or qualified in this unprecedented in Israei and foreign

Qualifying the slate's argument that Weizman was subject to the Khnury and Amnon Zichroni defence minister according to the Baaic Law: The Army, Witkon noted: "The question is not whose orders have preference but whosa opinion is more acceptable to the court?" Unlike the previous cases of Belt El or that of the Rafiah salient (the "Hilu" case) Witkon was not wholiy convinced that in the case of Eilon Moreh there was an overriding strategic justification for establishing a settlement on that particular site. He based his opinion on those of the military experts that had been submitted in the various cases A third element in Witkon's decloion was the opinion of the aettlers themseives as it emerged from the affidavit they submitted to the court. While emphasizing that be did not take into account the recent activities of Gush Emunim "where they emerged as people who do not accept the authority of the army and do not hesitate to give violent expression to their opposition." the court had to take into account the position of the settlers themsoives when examining the reasons for requisitioning the land. "If they thamselves did not settle the area for purely military reasons I find it difficult to accept that that is the real reason for the settlement," he wrote.

While emphasizing that he did not see fit to go into the applicability of section 49(6) of the Geneva Convention, which deals with the transfer of populations. Withou noted that it was a mistake to assert that the Geneva Convention did not apply to Judea and Samaria.

Unlike the Hague Convention which as cuatomary international iaw was absorbed by internal or municipal law, the Geneva Convention was conventional International law to which countries accede by

As such it only applied botween the ouhscribing partieo, that is countries and not private individuals, and the correct forum was not an internal court but an international forum of some kind, he said. The judges were clearly aware that their docision has political overtones. Justice David Becbor, in bis concurring opinion, soted that the court was not authorized to doal with questions of policy or queetions whose origins are in religious faith or in a national historical world

Landau, dlamissing State Attorney Gavriel Bach's argument that the case was not justifiable because of lts political nature, also acknowledged the difficulties: "There is still much room to fcar that the court will appear to have abandoned its proper position and to have descended to the arena of public debate ... I know in advance that the general public will not pay attention to the legal reasoning but only to the final outcome and that the court's proper otanding as an institution above the Issues that divide the public may be harmed. But what can we do, as this is our duty and our role as judges."

French Jews to attend Cologne trial of ex-Nazis parts iReuter). — At least 350 French Jews hope to attend today's opening of the trial of Kurt Lischka, wartime Gestapo chief in Nazioccupisd Paris, and two former $5 officers in Cologne, West Germany. Lischka, Herbert Hagen and Ernst Helnrichsohn are accused of being responsible for the deportation of more than 55,000 Jews from France. Some 30,000 of them were gessed as soon as they arrived in German concentration camps.

More than 250 members of an association of relatives of Jews deported from France were to isave Paris last night by train for Cologus. They were to be led by French Nazihunters Beate and Serge Klarsfeld. Another 100 association members, including the Saint-Etienne and Thionville mayors, were to travel to Cologne by coach.

Klarsfeld threatened last week that French Jews would disrupt the trial because the courtroom was too small. Justice authorities have sines moved the trial to the biggest court, which holds about 100 people.

In 1950, a French court sentenced Lischka in his absence to hard labour for life. Lischka's trial in West Germany was delayed because of a legal technicality. But parliament then passed a law which enabled a German citizen to be retried after being condemned abroad for war crimes.

Klarsfeid told a Bonn press conference last Tuesday that French co-plaintiffs would not accept any excuses of illness from three defendants. He said be was told Hagen bad undergone a hernia operation which might prevent his appearance in court.

Botb Hagen, now es, and Heinricbsohn, now 59, were

Income bill opens Knesset session

By ARYEH RUBINSTEIN
Post Knesset Reporter

The Knesset's winter session opened yesterdsy with Labour and Social Affairs Minister Israel Katz presenting for its first reading the guaranteed income bill, which provides for the payment of a monthly allowance to persons unable to support themselves.

to support themselves.

Katz said that the bill would bring all matters dealing with a guaranteed income under the aegis of the National Insurance Institute, instead of being scattered among several agencies.

The bill also makes clear the responsibility of the state to ensure subsistence to all inhabitants of the country. What is now paid by the government on the strength of an "arrangement" or an "agreement" would henceforth be paid to those eligible as a matter of right, Katz said.

But the target of the bill, he explained, was that segment of the population whose economic distress is clear-cut, and whose needs are not covered, or not entirely covered, by existing social insurance programmes.

Another advantage of the bill, Katz sald, was that it would release social workers from the need to worry ahout ensuring that their clients had a minimum income and enable them to concentrate on rehabilitation and other professional services.
Unemployment in itsalf would not be enough to qualify a person for allowances under the bill; the individual must be incapable of worklng, either for reasons of basith or of age.

The bill lays down two scales of payment, "regular" and "enlarged." The first is for eligibles whose unemployment appears to be temporary; the sacond is for those whose need is parmanant or protrested.

An eligible individual would receive 20 per cent of the average wage in the economy under the regular scale, and 25 per cent under the enlarged scale. The highest allowance would be 47.5 per cant of the average wage, for a couple with two or more childran, under the enlarged scale (40 per cent under the regular scale).

The debate was not concluded.

No-confidence votes

The Knesset this afternoon will hear five no-confidence motions, sobmitted by the Alignment, Shal, the Communists, Banai, and Sheli.

The Alignment motion will be resented by Shimon Peres, who will raise in his indictment of the government the resignation of the foreign minister and the Eilon Moreh court decision.

New ombudsmen seen

Policemen and prison guards will have their own ombudsmen to whom they may submit complaints connected with their service, under two bills that passed their first reading in the Knesset yesterday.

Interior Minister Yosef Burg, who presented the bills, noted that the appointment of s police ombudsman had been recommended by the Shimron Commission on organized crime, which said that lower ranks should not be required to channel complaints through their superiors.

The proposed ombudemen would be sppointed by the interior minister for a three-year term, and with police, prison guards, and members of their immediate familiee all able to submit complaints to them.

Europe sees Dayan move as blow to peace

PARIS. — Western Europe, with the eole "exception of Austrian Chancelor Bruno Kreisky, yesterday depiored Moshe Dayan's resignation as Foreign Minister. The press throughout the continent was unanimous in describing Dayan's resignation as a blow to the peace process and the search for a colution leaders it said were bent on "aggression and expansion."

The "Ai-Jazlra" newspaper, quoted by the Saudi Prese Agency in Riyadh, said in an cditorial: "Differences and divisions in the ranks of the Israeli government should not impress us, because they all have one objective — how best could they devour the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

The newspaper said an Israeli attack on neighbouring Arab countries was poseible to overshadow the resignation of Dayan.

In the United Arab Emirates the "Al-Ittlhad" newepaper said Dayan's resignation came at a tims when the autonomy talks were "virtually pronounced dead."

In Bahrain, the English language newspaper "The Gulf Dally News" said that the resignation of Dayan was an indictment of the policies being pursued by Israel.

"There is no one better equipped than Dayan to know how unjust and uncompromising Israel is on the Pslestinian questioo," the paper said, adding the choice of Dayan's successor was most important for the future relations of Israel with the Arab world.

In Atlanta, former U.S. United Nations ambassador Andrew Young sald he hopes Dayan's resignation will promote vigorous Israeli debate on the Palestinian question.

African sports body eyes excluding UK from Olympics

YAOUNDE, Cameroun. — The Supreme Council for Sport in Africa said yesterday it was canvassing to have Britain excluded from next year's Moscow Olympic Gamee if it intends to intensify sporting links with South Africa.

In a statement issued by Abraham Ordia of Nigeria, the council president, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was accused of lacking the moral courage "to take every practical step to stop the current tour of Britain by the racially selected Barbarlan rugby team of South Africa."

South Africa."

In a reference to next year's planned tour of South Africa by a British rugby team, the council said it would be "the last straw that breaks the camel's back and British rugby must then bear full responsibility for the consequences that will follow their action.

"Britain's continued fraternization with apartheld eport will be a major item on the agenda of the SCSA congress here in December," the council said.

The statement went on: "The SCSA is now canvassing all Asian, Caribbean and socialist countries for their support to exclude Britain from the Olympics if she intends intensifying her sporting links with spartheid South Africa."

Expressing the council's thanks to International Olympic Committee Precident Lord Killanin for the committee's firm stand against South Airlea's racialism in sport, Ordia added: "Wo hope that we shall continue to count upon their support in this regard." (Reuter, UPI)

40% hike seen in frozen chicken

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The subsidy on frozen chicken will be entirely done away with and its price will rise by come 40 per cent, when decisions made this week by the ministry director-generals' committee on subsidy cuts are implemented.

The director-generals of the Agriculture, Trade and Finance Ministries have also decided on price increases for other subsidized foods—bread, milk and milk products—but they will go up by some 20 per cent only.

The timing of the subsidy cuts has been ieft to the ministerial committee dealing with subsidies, due to meet soon.

Sunday's flour and grains price rise has huit up the pressure for a rise in the price of frozen chicken, bread and dairy products, since production costs of these items have now jumped, and if no price rise is forthcoming, the subsidies hudget will have to be drastically increased.

Conference to extend war on cancer

Jcrusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — The "fourth dimension" in fighting cancer — stepping up the body's natural defensive system — will be discussed at a four-day medical conference on Immunological aspects of experimental and clinical cancer, starting here on October 29.

The other three dimensions are radiation, surgery and chemotherspy.

Prof. Nathan Trainin, of the Weizmann Institute of Science, said yesterday that "although in its infancy as an effective weapon in figbting cancer, the system shows considerable promise, especially if used with existing methods.

He said that it is well known that the buman body does fight cancer. "But the problem is that the buman body is simply not strong enough to eradicate the cancerous cells."

Scientists are now developing many approaches to help the body in its losing war, Trainin continued. For example, it is theoretically possible to isolate the anti-bodies which fight the cancerous cells, and attach a "chemical time-bomb" to them, eo they can step up their fighting ability.

Thais ready to defend border with Kampuchea

BANGKOK (AP.). - Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomsnan yesterdsy ssid that volunteer troops would be called for "if needed" to defend the country's border with Kampuches, but that Thailand will maintain a non-aggressive policy, a government spokesman reported.

Kriangsak told s special cabinet meeting that Thalland "will defend its honour" but will not engage in punitive actions if its territory is violated in the slowly escalating Kampuchean conflict, government spokesman Utharn Sanityong added.

He sald that Krisngsak also outlined the country's new policy of accepting all refugees, including Vietnamese "boat people." a policy he estimated could more than double the approximately 200,000 refugees already esmped here.

Kriangsak said the new refugees would be accepted on a temporary basis for resettlement later in third countries.

The premier also called on the press to refrain from criticizing Vietnsm, the spokesman said. This would not restrict news coverage. but would be a guideline for cditorials and anaiyaes.

There is no censorship in Thailand, but in the past Kriangsak has closed down newspapers that printed what he considered unsuitable material. Esriler yesterday. Thailand strongly rejected the Vletnamesc government's secusations that the Thai government is taking sides in the Cambodian conflict.

Last week, the Foreign Ministry in Hanoi called in the Thai ambassador and read him a statement saying that Thalland was taking sides against Vleinam despite its professed neutrality.

The Hanoi statement also said Thailand had aided Americans in the Victnam war and "now has joined the reactionary clique among the Chinese authorities in working out its slanders to oppose Vietnam. Kampuchea and Laos."

The Thai statement said Thailand has stresaed ita desire and willingness to maintain friendly relations with Vietnam, but cannot condone any actions which violate the accepted norms governing the conduct of peaceful relations among states, or those which run counter to the principles of the UN Charter."

Anti-Semite charge hurled at Carter aide Hamilton Jordan

By TOM TUGEND Special to The Jerusalem Post

LOS ANGELES. - Anti-Semitle remarks attributed to Hamilton Jordan have been added to recent charges of cocaine use, sexual excesses and public drunkenness against President Jimmy Carter's White House chief of staff.

Some of the allegations are now under investigation by the Justice Department and all stem from two sbort visits by Jordan to Los Angeles in October 1977, largely Impelled by the president's deteriorating relations at the time with the Jewish Jordan's actions and behaviour during the two ahort Los Angeles visits have now been reconstructed In considerable detail by four investigative reporters for the "Loa Angeles Times." The bulk of their lengthy article deals with previous charges of drunkenness and ilcentlousness, many apparently confirmed in the article by witnesses, and others judged to be of questionable validity. The new facet introduced in the "L.A. Times" story is an undertone of anti-Semitism attributed to Jordan.

Jordan's major frustration apparently centred on the threatened Jewish boycott of the Carter fundraiser and led to such remarks attributed to him as "showing that we don't need the Jews" and "the Jews are hitting us over the head."

The most serious charge, however, comes from Leo Wyler, a major Los Angelea industrialist and forme Carter backer.

Two close associates of the industrialist told the "L.A. Times" that Wyler phoned them shortly after the fund-raising dinner and seemed quite disturbed about Jordan's general behaviour. Wyler, a Catholic. was particularly upset about one specific remark by Jordan that "we have to get the California Democratic Party back from the Jews."

In rebuttal, a White House apokesman told the "L.A. Times" that Jordan categorically denied making this or any other anti-Semitic remarks

ON A PROMONTORY pointing to the sea, in the corner of America where the nation's history began, a political spectacle unfolded af the weekend, the likes of which had never been seen even in the old city of Boston.

The President of the United States and his prospective challenger. Senator Edward Kennedy, met in the presence of 7,000 of the Kennedy faithful to dedicate a permanent shrine to the memory of the two Kennedy brothers for whom pursuit of the presidency brought death and legend.

It was a gathering of the clan, a time of reminiscence of battles past and whispered conversations about the struggle soon to begin. It was a giant family picnic in the park on the edge of Boston Harbour - but a plcnic touched by moments of almost unbearable polgnance, when the recorded voice of the slain president filled the air and the eldest son of the murdered senator spoke with his father's fervour of injustice in the

It was a speech that managed without hitting a single note that could be called offensive to the occasion — to be the best brief Carter ever has delivered for himself as the adapter of the Kennedy traditions to the needs of these times.

Even after the aspiring, eurylving senator bad stirred the air with his own praise of his brothers, it was Jimmy Carter of whom the Kennedy crowd talked.

"He really rose to the occasion," said Adam Walinsky, Bob Kennedy's firebrand former aide. "Carter was euperb," added John F. Kerry, who had just quit his job as a prosecutor bere to be available for Ted Kennedy's unannounced campaign. "I never knew be had it in him."

Poignant moments in

Kennedy country

NO ONE in this Kennedy crowd thought for a moment that Carter's eloquence would deflect Kennedy's apparent determination to challenge the president for renomination in next year's primeries and caucuses. But it gave them a fresh appreciation of what Kennedy may be up against in eeeking to unseat the incumbent.

'It will be an exciting campaign hard and tough," said former Senator John Tunney, of California, Kennedy's college roommate.

"Kennedy seems to bring out the best in Carter, doesn't be?" asked Bill Haddad, a New Yorker active Ted and Joan Kennedy and Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter were centrestage, side by side, locked in a tension so palpable it could be felt. Few words were exchanged among the four, until Carter had finished hie speech and returned to his seat, between Joan and Rosalynn.

Both women — and the senstor, as well — had watched him, rspt, while he described his prayers and tears on the day John Kennedy was murdered.

In the instant between Carter's turning from the podium at the end of his address, and Ted Kennnedy's reaching it to begin his own response, an efficient security aide reached up and removed the presidential seal from the lectern. The swiftness of the gesture seemed to emphasize the ephemeral and equivocal nature of the prize for which the two men are about to cant changes in foreign or domestic policy — the issues are strictly bread and butter — and no changes in the inner circle of power. But they will represent the beginning of a new era in Kenyan politics.

Since succeeding Jomo Kenyatta. wbo died in August, 1978, at the age of 85, Moi bas moved csutiously. He has dissociated himself from the corruption and tribsiism that were common during the Kenystts era, but he has made only minor changes in Kenyatta's handpicked team of cabinet ministers and national administrators.

Given the traditionally short political life of a Kenyan politician, it is expected that the 7 million eligible voters will defeat many old-time Kenyatta aupporters. In the 1969 general elections, 54 per cent of the Members of Parliament were voted out of office. In 1974, 51 per cent were turned out.

Moi will now have his first opportunity to pick his own team to ad-minister Kenya, one of the most stable and prosperous countries in black Africa. Hie public statements indicate that he will seek a more even tribal balance in government and a fairer distribution of income.

ALTHOUGH Kenya's politics and economy continue to be controlled largely by the Kikuyu, which is Kenyatta's tribe and Kenya's largest ethnic group, Moi is a member of the small Tugen tribe. He has sought to lessen the dominance of Kikuyus and has frequently told audiences that

In each of the three national elec-Uons since Kenya became indepen-dent from Britain io 1963, voter participation has failen. In 1974, only 2.6 million of the 6.3 million voters then eligible went to the polis. The representatives they sent to the 169member parliament generally were middle-of-the-roaders from the elite sector of society.

Political observers offer two reasons for the low voter turn-out. Some say that the one-party system produces candidates who are different only in terms of their perconslities and that the voters realize they have little influence over national decisions.

Others say the people were more politically active and enthusiastic at the time of independence, when they had concrete grievances. The people still have grievances but they are seldom taken into consideration by the politicians, who usually campaign not on promiees but on performances, emphasizing such thinge as how many schools or clinics they

ALL THE CANDIDATES must be membere of Kenya African National Union, but as many as five or elx compete in each district. Most of those ciected will be members of Moi's Nyayo team, a Swahiii word that is translated roughly as

"footsteps."
Nyayo is used in connection with Moi's undefined political phliosophy. Most people interpret it as a demand to handie oneself in a mature and moderate manner. Moi uses it much as Kenyatta used "Harambee," a Swahlii word meaning "iet's puil together.'

Moi. a former school teacher and wealthy businessman who aerved as Kenyatta's vice-president for 12 years, was considered little more than a yes-man for Kikuyu interests when he became head of state.

But in the last 13 months, be bas silenced his critice with bie forcefuiness and statesmanship and has become increasingly popular. Whereas Kenyatta did not travel for years and became aloof from bis people, Moi bas visited every corner of Kenya, and has been to Britain, France, Saudi Arabia and Zambis since coming to power.

Under Mol. Kenya has become a much more relaxed place than it was under Kenyatta. Moi has released all political prisoners, numbering about 12, and the press has become freer and more outspoken. He is also playing a more active role in the affairs of Africa than did the aging Kenyat-

TEL AVIV. - The Dead Sea Works in the year ending March 31, 1878 produced 1.09m. tons of potash. The company produced nearly 10 per cent less than its productive capacity as a reault of a strike which shut it down for nearly two months. Nevertheless, overall sales of potash were 1.2m. tons, which was 2.5 per cent less than cold the year before.

Exports continued to increase and for the year under review stood at

The group specializes in the production of potash and a variety of bromine compounds.

Sales for the company, which showed an annual gain of 50 per cent. were IL2.3b. Production costs rose sharply and the 62 per cent advance in these costs was primarily dua to higher expenses incurred by the subsldiaries.

Gross profit increased by 23 per cent and was IL605m. In the period under review the company paid IL52m. in royaltles to the govern-ment of Israel and IL23m. In management fees to its parent com-

The nnt profit was five per cent lower than a year ago, due to higher tax reserves. However, income from investments advanced rapidly and totalled IL370m., reflecting a 128 per cent rise over the period a year ago. Net profits, therefore, came to IL504.3m. and marked a 69 per cent gain over the previous year.

New investments came to IL339m.

These included a granulation plant, new storage facilities, a table salt factory and improvements to the dyke system.

On the balance sheet date the company declared a 15 per cent interim eash dividend, in addition to 10 per cent in bonus shares. An additional 30 per cent cash dividend and 10 per cent in shares was subsequently recommended by the board of direc-

PROSTITUTES. - Prostitutes in Lima, capital of Peru, went on strike yesterday for better treatment and pay from brothel owners. About 200 of them formed picket lines to stop owners in the Caliao Port "red light" zone from bringing in other women as strikebreakers.

TEL AVIV. - Our mention in these columns of the 1660 "Eight-Grains" one agora has created a stir. A number of individuals have written to The Jerusulem Post claiming to own the rare specimens. Arnold H. Kagan, trustee of the Kagan-Maremba collection which contains five of these rare colns, has written to us giving more detalled informa-

The 1860 "Elght-Grains" one agora la the rarest modern coln of Israel. The left ear of barley, on the obverse, has eight grains instead of the ten grains which appear on the regular strike.

The Bank of Israel requested that two grains be added, after viewing the sample pieces sent to the committee for approval by the ICI Mint. It has been said that ten specimens of type II were sent to the com-The pattern pleces were ina private collector in Haifa.

From 1870 to 1873, five additional picces were obtained from a German collector who purchased them from a former employee of the ICI Mint in Birmingham. These "Eight-Grain" patterns were found to be in three varieties. It was first believed that the two patterns lo Israel were a different variety. After 8 careful atudy and comparison between all the coins in Israel they proved to be of the type II variety.

It is not known why two different sets of dies were used by the ICI Mint for the 1 agora 1960, the first date of the agora series. The committee only requested that two more grains be added and that the numeral "1" be mede larger and that the Hebrew date 5720 (1960) be made smaller.

Charter company's successful season

TEL AVIV 1Itim). - The Charter No. 1 Company took 3,000 Israells to the U.S. and Europe this summar on charter flights, a company representative said yesterday at a press con-

This summer's success, the spokesman said, had encouraged the continuation of the charter flights throughout the winter.

From November to April, Israelis will be offered a ski package wbich will take them to a ski resort in Austria for DM855.

The firm's connections with the Laker company, which is to start fly-ing to Israel this winter, will also make it possible for Israelis to travel by charter flights to London and New York for about $600.

ZERO GROWTH HURTS

nature are two contributing factors. We are atill feeling last winter's crippling drought. If, God forbid, there is a second year of drought, the situation will be catastrophic."

The drought has caused a curtailing of summer crops. About 10 per cent lese cotton was planted this summer because of the lack of rainfall and the wheat yield last spring was less than half of the expected He added that many commercial winter crops ilke potatoes and other vegetables had been planted in smaller quantities so that the water quotas could be used for planting fodder for the animais.

Prices farmers are getting in the livestock and poultry sectors are not keeping up with inflation.

In the flower and other agricultural export sectors, farmers are losing money because the devaluation of the Israel pound is not quick enough to keep pace with infla-

According to Histadrut statistics, farmers received only 70-80 per cent of the true value of their export

Sa'sdi claims that there bas been a drastic 1e per cent drop in farming profitability during the past two

The prasent financial crisis in agriculture is being felt mainly in the moshav sector. In contrast, the kibbutz sector has been investing more and more in industry during past years. Some kibbutzim already derive more than 50 per cent of their income from industry instead of

The klbbutzim have also gone over to crops, that use maximum mechanizatioo. But the kibbutz movements fear that if the present ecocomic attuation continues for long, the industrial sector will not be able to shoulder their agricultural

A similar view was heard from tha private farmers. Shlomo Reisman, the director of the Farmers Federation, told The Post that private farmers were still "standing on their feet" because they had never been the recipients of government loans. But if the present economic situation continues, the small private farmers would also be facing harsh financial Samuel Pohoryles, the director of the rural planning and devalopment authority of the Ministry of Agriculture, agreed in principle with most of the findings of the Agricultural Centre. He said that the crunch hurts more since Israel has had a 6 per cent per year growth in agricultural production — one of the bighest rates in the world.

In the past 25 years agriculturs production has increased 12-fold. 'All this makes It hard on us to live with zero growth," bs said.

Pohoryles also noted the difficulties the farmers were having in finding capital. During the past two years, interest on loans for agriculture has gone from 15 to 16 per cent to more than 50 per cent. Even at this high interest

Exxon doubles profits to $1.4b. in third quarter

NEW YORK (AP). — Exxon Corp., the largest oil company in the U.S., said yesterday it had more than doubled its profits in the third quarter from the same period a year

Exxon, which ranks eccond on the Fortune magazine list of 500 largest industrial firms, earned $1.14b. in the quarter, a 118 per cent jump from the $525m. earned in 1978's third quarter, and one of the largest. quarterly profits in U.S. business history.

On a per-share basis, that came out to $2.60 a share, compared to $1.18 per share a year ago.

Exxon's sales in the quarter. which began with many Americans in line for petrol and ended with fears about heating oil supplies and prices, rose 10 $20.65b. from $15.6b. For the nins months ended September 30, the company reported profits of $2.63b., or $8.64 a share. In the same period of 1978, the company earned $1.91b., or $4.28 a share. Sales for the nine months rose to $59.1b. from $46.7b. Exxon said the profits were inflated by a one-time gain of $200m. resulting from a change in British tax laws that erased some of Ex-xon's liabilities in Great Britain. The company also said that an improvement in foreign currency exchange rates added $50m. to the company's profits in the quarter. But most of the galn was due to increases in Exxon's profits from foreign business, where a lack of price controls allow oil companies to pass higher costs directly to customers. Exxon said that in the American market, however, earnings dropped sharply from the year before.

The huge gain to earnings is bound to cause some public relations problems for the giant integrated oil company, which, like other oil firms. has come under fire in recent years for reaping large profits at times of shortages of petroleum products.

Shares make further gains as bonds decline

TEL AVIV. - The share market continued to advance yesterday as most of the gains recorded were among Commercial bank. bank, insurance and investment mortgage company shares. Industrials and land development shares turned mixed. Trading turnovers continued to declice, as IL112m. worth of chares changed hands.

The index linked bond market cootinued to be under selling pressure as no single sector was able to come through with a gain. Generally the extent of the losses suffered by index linked bonds came to about one per cent. There is still no indication that the current selling wave, which has seen some series of index-linked bonds fall by more than five per cent in one wack, is about to come to

As the share market stabilizes it would be expected that the index-linked bond market receives some support, with speculators making position adjustmeots. current very low market prices it is quite elear that the Bank of Israel will have a difficult time in selling any meaningful amounts of new bonds.

The Israel pound fell by 10 agorot against the American dollar. The change took place while the American dollar traded mostly unchanged on overseas markets.

The commercial bank group once again was epearbeaded by Bank Leumi, whose shares rose by five points, to 481. The advance came as a result of an initial demand of ILS.4m. Union Bank rose hy three points, while IDB and Hapoalim were two higher. Mizrahi, FIBI and Geoeral Bank were each

Mortgage bank issues enjoyed good pop ularity and recorded gains. The Tefahot group of shares was the main exception, as both the ordinary and preferred shares tumbled by as much as 7.3 per cent. Others in the mortgage bank sector rose by as much as

cent on the average. Profit-taking overtook Yardenia IL1 as the shares declined by 6.1 per cent, to 154.

Israel Land Devslopment Corporation shares stole the spotlight in an otherwise mixed land development and real estate group The ordinary bearer ebarce were nearly seven per cent higher. The 3 per cent debentures soared by nearly ten per cent, to 129. Mebadrin was five per cent ahead while Rassco commoo gained six points, to 243. Shares reflecting losses were down by about two per cent.

Industrials also were mixed. Moller was sharply ahead, as the shares jumped nearly ten per cent on a email turnover. Nechushtan, oo the other hand, was marked down by five per cent as a result of a "sellers only" situation. Petrochamicals also was on the "sellers only" list. Assis debentures were "buyers only' and were fixed five per cent higher.

Investment company shares were strongly higher as gains of 3-5 per cent were visible throughout the list. The one and major exception was that of Piryon, whose shares were tumbled for a 14-point loss, representing a drop of 8.3 per cent. Export Investments (R) was "buyers only" as was the case with Jordan Exploration options.

iThe yield reflects the difference between the "theoretical" value of bonds — based on the date of issue and current Co-L indexes plus accumulated interest — and the actual market price it is based on the assumption that future Co-L index increases will be zero. A negative yield indicates bonds sold at a premium, n positive figure bonds sold in n discount?

The price of blunders

IT NEVER RAINS but it pours. Shocked Sunday by the resignation of Moshe Dayan as foreign minister, the government yesterday received another, potentially even more damaging, blow in the form of an absolute injunction by the High Court of Justice tn vacate Ellnn Moreh within 30 days.

It is no disrespect to the court to suggest that its decision in this case could not have been a particularly hard one to reach, and, as it happened, to reach unanimously. For the planting of Eilon Moreh on partly private-owned Arab land near Nablus was a blatant instance of the mlsuae of the security argument to mask a strictly political decision.

The political decision, which Mr. Dayan claims he opposed, was to establish an Irremovable civilian Jewish presence smack in the heart of the heaviest Arab concentration in Samaria, as a willing conceaeion to Guah Emunim In Its insistence on proof positive of the permanent indivisibility of Eretz Yisrael.

The accurity argument was that such a Jewish presence was vital to Israel's 'regional defence."

Back in March, it is true, the same five-member court ruled, in the Beth-El case, that security considerations were admisslble, where appropriate, as justification for the seizure of Arab land in the territories to accommodate Jewisb settlers.

This apparently encouraged Mr. Begin, a one-time jurist, to assume that the High Court would uniformly say amen to the Government's invocation of the needs of defence in all such cases. Fooliahly disregarding the judges' carefully worded caveats, he brandished their opinions in Beth-El as not only warrant for settlement in Judea, Samaria and Gaza, but virtually as a command.

Now the premier, alas, has been boist with his own petard, and with him the entire Cabinet. If there is one man whose responsibility may be said to exceed that of the premier's, it is Justice Minieter Tamir, who should bave known better.

What the High Court bas now told the Government, in the most unmistakable terms, ia that it will not stand for political monkeying around with the law; and, no less importantly, that law under which Israel operates in the territories occupled in June 1967 is that of a belligerent occupier. The Government of Ierael, in other words, is entirely free to consider Eretz Yisrael as eesentially one country, and to aeek to secure recognition for Its unity in any future peace accord.

But eo long as the present situation obtains, such rights (and they are not inconsiderable) as Israel enjoys in the territories derive from its status as occupier. And these rights go together with some specific obligations, which for the purpose of internal law are listed in the Hague Regulations (and externally, in the Geneva Convention).

Thus the problem of Eilon Moreh will not be solved (even if the settlers can somehow be induced to agree) by merely moving it to another location nearby that is not contaminated by private Arab land ownership (and even if the court decides that "unregistered" land may be treated as the equivalent of state

As counsel for the eettlers made abundantly clear in his statement to the court, the present regime's entire concept of settlement is its permanence, and not epbemeral utility to the armed forces. But the very possibility of permanence (in the legal sense) has now been ringingly denied by the High Court. Therefore it won't do to retroactively abrogate the court's decision (an idea with which some Likud lawyer-legislators, to their sbame, were publicly toying yeaterday, and which Mr.

Begin, to his credit, finally shot down). To assure the settlements of permanence outside of a peace treaty, nothing less would be required than the wholesale annexation of the territories.

This is an unpleasant dilemma, that the Government is facing, but it is wholly of its own making. In the meantime it should perhape coneole itself in the thought that the prospect for Arab-Jewish amity, a major oatensible purpose of settlement, has been comewhat improved by the Higb Court.

COUNTERING ARAB LIES

The world knows too little about the fate of Jewish refugees from Arab lands, Mordechai Ben-Porat tells The Post's SARAH HONIG.

THE ARABS' ANTI-ISRAEL propaganda line should be countered by making the world familiar with the fate of Jews in Arab lands. This is the considered judgement of Mordechai Ben-Porat, co-chairman of the World Organization of Jews from Arah Countries. If this advice were heeded, a long stride would have been taken to counter the Arab version of the roots of the Middle East conflict as it is spread by men such as Andrew Young, the former American ambassador to the United Nations, Ben-Porat, a former MK. helleves. Ben-Porat cites the example of Young's telling an audlence of 1,500 at Michigan State University recently that the Palestinians were 'evicted from their land as a direct outcome of World War II. Feeling guilty for not have done more to prevent the Holocaust in Europe, the U.S. robbed the Palestinian Arabs of their birthright and gave their land to the Jews of Europe to atone for its own guilt. When the U.S. established Israel, we did not rob American land, but took away someone else's land. We saw to it that others foot the bill and pay for our feelings of guilt," Young told his listeners, as reported by news agen-

Young's words contain ao many glaring falsehoods and outright distortions of history that it is difficult to decide where to begin setting the record straight. It is appalling that the Zionist endeavour in this country, which had its roots long before World War II, could he so mis-represented, Ben-Porat says.

We have been on the defensive for too long and it is high time Israsl went on the offensive, he declares. "I wonder how many Americans, white and black, bave any idea of how much land was robbed from the Jews who were forced to flee from the Arab countries. How many have any idea that balf of this country's pepulation is not of European origin, but comes from this very region where its roots are long and deep.

"The Jewe of Mesopotamia ilved in what is today Iraq from the days of the First Temple, preceding the Araba by well over 1,000 years. This is also true of North Africa and of Egypt. Thoughout the centuriss, theirs was mostly the existence of a defenceless, disgraced and despised minority. They suffered in World War II as well and it is time that we told the world that the Arabs were not the innocent hystanders in that war that they preisnd to have been, but werea actively pro-Nazis." the Baghdad-born Ben-Porat told The

HE HAD VAINLY hoped to impress some of these points on Young's colleague, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who visited Israel recently. But Jackson spent most of his time here almost exclusively with Arabs, Ben-

Ben-Porat points out that Jews left landed property in the Arab countries which was five time the size of the state of Israel. "If Young is in-deed a man of moral and intellectual integrity, let him study the tragedy of Jews from Arab countries who lost far more than the Arabs who left Israel ever had," Ben-Porat argues.

Ben-Porat has secured the agreement of Elie Wiesel, who heads President Jimmy Carter's Holocaust Commission, to document the activi-

Ben-Porat told The Post that his organization will in the near future hold a world conference in New York of Jews from Arab countries. "The venue was chosen precisely because of the need to inform the American public of thie significant angle of the Middle East dispute, of which they are woefully ignorant," he says.

THE DANGERS OF SMOKING

To the Editor of The Jerusolem Post

Sir, — I am writing in reference to Judy Slegel's report of October 4 that Sephardi Chief Rabhl Ovadia Yosef warned Jews to keep away from cigarette smoking because it is dangerous to one's health. At the same time it was reported that the Rabbl declined to issue a more strict and universal ruling because "a number of great Talmud scholars have written that "some people with etomach disorders become elcker unless they smoke." Allegedly the Rabbi told the Post that he had "not asked any doctors whether this claim was medically proven. Certainly over 100,000 U.S. doctors, who have given up the tobacco babit, disagree with the Talmud scholare, who were poeelbly themselves addicted to smoking

It ie common practice for the layman to group all categories of synthetic materials under the collective term "plastic." However, dis-tinction should be made between the different types of plastic materials. While It is known that rodents and birds have a predilection for polyethylene, the majority of pipes are made from rigid polyvinyl chloride. BANK PROFITS

Sir, - In view of the reckless and irresponsible behaviour of the Bank Leuml clerks (or rather their work committeee) which caused a lot of suffering to many of the bank's clients, it seems safe to assume that the majority of these customers understood and sympathised with the perpetual threats of interference with the clients' right to dispose of their own money. However, there is one point in favour of the clerks; they are better aware than the public of the exaggerated profits of the bank and it is at least psychologically understandable that they want their

ISRAEL'S LACK OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

Sir. — I am angry at the Israeli government because its leaders flagrantly disregard the importance of public relations, even now, when it is obvious that the Arah propaganda machine is out-manoeuvring Israel at every turn, a distorted Image in the eyes of the world. Israelis are now the bad guys, and the Palestinians are the oppressed victims, the epitome of suffering. Manifestations of this shift in public opinion are seen almost daily in editorials, news analyses, and letters to the Editor.

How often have Israel's P.R. experts sat down with their counterparts in other countries like the United States, England, or France, in a think-tank session with the objective of deviaing a communications strategy that would present Israel's story — the true story — so effectively that every country, town, and hamlet would at least have a balanced knowledge of conditions in the Mideast? Probably never, for there is no evidence showing it. If Isracl'e leaders are so arrogant regarding public relations that they

insist they are capable of doing it themselves, they are to a great extent responsible for Israel's dilemma today. Although we in the U.S. and other parts of the Diaspora continue to work, and with renewed fervour, because Israel's crises continue to get worse, I fear that if Israel does not get its act together - and help us help her - disenchantment will surely set in.
